CODE OF CONDUCT
MOUNTAIN BIKING/CYCLING

IT’S FOR YOUR OWN SAFETY!
A large part of the Zell am See-Kaprun region is covered by woodland and alpine pastures where many cows, sheep and goats are kept during the summer. Many approved mountain bike routes lead through areas where farmers and foresters work. They also maintain these paths and keep them in good condition. For the safety of mountain bikers and anyone working in such areas, the following rules apply:

• Show consideration for hikers and pedestrians and only take over at walking speed.
• Pay attention to the route’s level of difficulty and evaluate your own experience as well as your skills as cyclist/mountain biker precisely.
• Ensure that your skills and condition suit the route.
• Always wear a helmet when riding your mountain bike! Check your equipment before each tour.
• Only ride a technically perfect bike.
• Don’t forget clothes for bad weather, tools and a spare tube.
• Take a small packed lunch and plenty of suitable beverages along.
• Please respect the barriers. Don’t forget that the paths are mainly used for agricultural and silvicultural purposes. Always close cattle guards behind you!
• For your own safety and the safety of the animals: Finish your bike tour before dusk!
• Hikers have right of way on narrow paths.
• Take care of and respect the flora and fauna.
• Don’t leave any rubbish behind.
• Keep the noise down and avoid making unnecessary skid marks.
• Be aware of farm and forestry machinery.
• Adjust your speed so you can stop at any time without difficulties.
• Be aware of wild animals, pets or cattle along and on the routes.
• Adhere to prohibition signs and information boards.
• Mountainbiking is allowed in following period and time: 15.04. – 30.10., 2 hours after sunrise and 1 hour before sunset.

Observing these rules will ensure that you have plenty of fun and relaxation during your mountain bike holiday and that the region’s unique mountain world remains as beautiful and clean as it is now.

BIKE TRANSPORT AND OPERATING TIMES LIFTS AND CABLE CARS:
• Free of charge to the Alpincenter/Kitzsteinhorn
• Operating times Kitzsteinhorn depending on snow situation (mid June – mid Sept.)
• Free of charge with the new MK Maiskogelbahn (Mid of May – Mid of October)

INFORMATION ABOUT THE LEVELS OF DIFFICULTY
Like ski pistes and hiking trails, approved cycling and mountain bike routes are also categorised by level of difficulty. Essentially, the gradient but also the condition of the route is the decisive factor when determining a route’s level of difficulty. Routes are divided in easy, intermediate and difficult. The routes on the bike map are marked as follows:

• EASY ROUTES are marked in blue. These routes are family-friendly, suitable for normal bicycles and the surface is in good condition. The gradient is 0 – 5 percent on average. Blue routes have hardly any areas of risk or special signs indicate any potential risks.

• INTERMEDIATE ROUTES are marked in red. These routes require sporty and especially defensive cycling skills. The gradient is 5 – 12 percent on average. Red routes include serpentines and parts with road traffic. Vehicles may require space across the entire width of the road.

• DIFFICULT ROUTES are marked in black. These are challenging mountain bike routes with many areas of risk. The gradient exceeds the maximum gradient of the red routes. The level of difficulty on black routes is higher than on red routes. Here is adaptive and anticipatory biking required.

• THE ‘TAUERNRADWEG’ (TAUERN CYCLING TRACK) is marked in green and is an easy route. Depending on the length of each stage, being in a good physical condition is still a requirement even on routes that are technically not so challenging.
